

Pics: Johan Sathyadas

Rapping, shopping and some beatboxing at the Plaza

(L-R) Members of the band Voltage-B, Yaswanth, Rohith M, Benedict Eligius, Vaughn Kevin Pinto and Sunil Jacksz

Here and below: The crowd lapping up every minute of the performance

Devoid

Dancing to the beats...

It was yet another busy Saturday at the Pedestrian Plaza, and as soon as the artistes started to check sound with their beatboxing skills, a huge crowd gathered around the stage expecting an energetic performance. They weren't disappointed as team Voltage-B, a band of young rappers and beatboxers from Chennai took stage, and soon had the audience grooving to peppy music.

Sunil and Rohith were the first to showcase some amazing beatboxing skills, and they engaged the audience really well. That was followed by a Melody Rap performance in both Tamil and English by Arcus, which got a roaring applause from the crowd. After this came the highly energetic rap by Sam Dot against women harassment; the band also featured MC Devoid, who came all the way from Madurai to belt out a few of his Tamil rap compositions, here in Chennai. As a grand finale, the bands performed a few of their own compositions together, leaving the crowd dancing.

An evening to remember, this performance was part of the Times of India Namma Chennai Chanceyilla celebrations supported by greater Chennai Corporation and Chennai Smart city limited.

Sam Dot

Arcus

